This section of the Cape Peninsula is rich in historical attractions - be they buildings, structures, landmarks, old sites or museums. Whereas some are well known, others are well-kept secrets and absolutely unique. So it is the intention of this map to give you the low-down in the form of a BIG PICTURE in terms of what to see and where by placing all the attractions in perspective and in so doing, integrate the content of various excellent publications.

With in excess of 400 historical attractions located in six distinct areas that are supported by no less than ten museums, you will need at least 15 days to finish the course. So make yourself at home and then go see things you won't see anywhere else.

** c 1900 Frikkie Auret lost a harpoon-head when piercing a whale. Some years later in an overseas publication called The Strand Magazine, it was reported that an American whaler had killed a whale off the coast of Kanchakka in Russia and had found in the whale's blubber the head of a harpoon with the initials W.F.A. Unbelievably, the harpoon-head was returned to him!

** Vincent Cloete, fourth generation of fisherman.
